Once upon a time there was a wicked king named Amulius who ruled the kingdom of _____. Amulius fought his brother, Numitor, and sent him into exile. Amulius forced Numitor's daughter, Rhea Silvia, to become a Vestal Virgin. Vestal Virgins were not allowed to marry and have children. One day Mars, the god of war, saw Rhea Silvia and fell in love with her. Some time later she gave birth to twin boys Romulus and Remus. The king was scared that someday Romulus and Remus would overthrow him and take his throne. So he ordered his slave to leave the boys in a basket on the _____ River. He figured they would soon die. They floated down the river. They were saved thanks to the help of the god _____, Father of the River, and survived. A she-wolf rescued the two babies and looked after them in a cave now known as the Lupercal. She protected them from other wild animals. A friendly _____ helped to find them food. Eventually some shepherds happened across the twins. One shepherd, _____, took the boys home and raised them as his own children. They grew up tending flocks, unaware of their true identities. As the boys grew older they became natural leaders. One day Remus was captured and taken to the king. He discovered his true identity. Romulus gathered some _____ to rescue his brother. They ended up killing the king. When the city learned who the boys were, they offered to crown them as joint _____. They could be rulers of their homeland. However, they turned down the crowns because they wanted to found their own city. The twins left and set out to find the perfect spot for their city. The twins eventually came to the place where Rome is located today. They both liked the general area, but each wanted to place the city on a different hill. After arriving back in the area of the _____ hills, they disagreed about the hill upon which to build. Romulus preferred the _____ Hill above the Lupercal; Remus preferred the _____ Hill. When they could not resolve the dispute they agreed to wait for a sign from the gods, called an augury, to determine which hill to use. Remus saw the sign of six vultures first, but Romulus saw _____. Each claimed to have won. Romulus went ahead and started building a wall around Palatine Hill. However, Remus was jealous and began to make fun of Romulus' wall. At one point Remus jumped over the wall to show how easy it was to cross. Romulus became angry and killed _____. Romulus continued to work on his city. He officially founded the city on _____ 21, 753 BC, making himself king, and naming it Rome after himself. From there he began to organize the city. He divided his _____ into legions. He called his 100 most noble men the Patricians and the _____ of Rome the Senate. The city grew and prospered. For over 1,000 years Rome would be one of the most powerful cities in the world. This is an important story for Romans since their city was started by the son of a god it had to be more powerful than any other city.
